Learning from a master

Our October presentation drew a crowd! Heinie Hartwig, whose landscape work hangs in galleries across the US and overseas, offered individual critiques of members' artwork, painting his suggested changes on a sheet of glass laid over the artwork. For more about Heinie Hartwig and his art, click here. Thanks to this renowned Foothill painter for sharing his knowledge with our group!

"GREECE REMAINS", FIRST PLACE,
WATERCOLOR, BY BARBARA YOUNG

Congratulations to all nine Aloft award winners! Renetta Hayes got first place in Pastels as well as the People's Choice award for "After the Rain" and Barb Young got first place in Watercolor for "Greece Remains". A big thank you to all our participating Aloft artists! The Aloft had a great, if brief, MAAA window display promoting the show. I like to think it contributed to the awareness and success of the show. October's window features a few of our more recent Aloft members. Diana Boegel paints in oil and pastel, sisters Rosie Ingalls and Beth Robinson are avid Plein Air painters, painting in oil. Linda Swedlund brings ordinary rocks to life with sparkling glass and bead mosaics. Carole Kamerlink designs silver and silver overlay on copper jewelry. Ron Kamerlink uses a method of flame painting on copper to bring out unique colors and patterns on jewelry pieces and small vessels. Check it out!

Our artists are gearing up for the holiday season, creating small works of art and crafts suitable for gift giving. You'll find them throughout the gallery right after Thanksgiving.

Plein air painters making the most of fall weather

Seriously, you've never done any plein air painting? Now is the season; this is the place. We had a great turnout on November 5 at Sierra Glen, formerly an orchard and berry farm in a spectacular setting at the top of Big Hill Road. In October, Columbia beckoned, with picturesque old buildings and colorful foliage.
